

Biographical Profile Dr. Charles E. Gilliland

Dr. Charles E. Gilliland is a Research Economist with the Real Estate Center in the Mays School of Business at Texas A&M University. His research concentrates on property taxation, appraisal issues, rural land markets, property rights issues and development issues.

Gilliland earned his bachelor's degree from Regis College in Denver, Colorado. He later attended Texas A&M University, where he earned both a Master's degree and a Ph.D. in Agricultural Economics.

Gilliland's professional experience includes work as an office manager and assistant assessor of the Hidalgo and Cameron Counties Water Control and Improvement District, chief deputy appraiser with A&M Consolidated Independent School District in College Station and serving as an adjunct associate professor of agricultural economics at Texas A&M University.

Gilliland is a recognized expert in his field and has provided testimony to entities including the United States Senate, the Texas Senate and the Texas House of Representatives. In addition, he has an extensive publication record and has provided consulting services for various law firms, corporations, and trade associations on his areas of expertise.

A native of Colorado, Gilliland grew up on a cattle ranch and now spends his spare time chasing golf balls through the heavily wooded countryside.